THE HOOSIER GARDENS
Peonies...Iris
LAFAYETTE, INDIANA

L. C. Corbett,
U. S. Dept. of Agriculture,
Bureau of Plant Industries,
Washington, D. C.

...FOREWORD...

Our business of the past year in the commercial field of Iris and Peony growers has far exceeded the mark that we had anticipated and we wish to take this opportunity to express our thanks and appreciation for your patronage. Our success is measured by our ability to please and give complete satisfaction. If for any reason we or our product has not met with your expectations you would favor us by writing and permitting us to make good. We know our stock to be as good as the best and better than the average sent out. It is grown in new soil especially adapted to iris and peony culture and our divisions are made from two and three year plants that are inspected by the State Entomologist and found to be vigorous and healthy. All shipments receive our personal care.

Size of Peony Plants.—Will be the usual three or more eyes, except special collections which will have two or more eyes. These divisions were established by the Peony Growers Association.

Size of Iris Rhizomes.—Will be strong, healthy and well grown.

Varieties.—Are all guaranteed true to name. No substitutions will be made unless authorized to do so. Any stock proving untrue will be replaced without further expense to the customer.

Shipping Dates.—Peonies: September 1st until ground freezes. Iris: July 1st until October 15th.

Shipments.—Cash with order. Orders will go forward prepaid excepting less than ten iris or five peonies. Allow three cents per iris and fifteen cents per peony for small orders.

IRIS

Cultural Directions:

Firstly, choose a sunny position—the more sun the better.

Secondly, give them good drainage—raise beds a little above ground.

Thirdly, give them a judicious dressing of lime. If soil needs enriching a tablespoon of bonemeal, thoroughly mixed with the soil is sufficient per plant. Never use fresh manure as it induces root rot.

Fourthly, plant only deep enough to allow soil to cover rhizome and any time after blooming until the ground freezes. Space single varieties twelve inches apart, mixed varieties eighteen inches apart.

We will gladly endeavor to answer any questions on iris culture, diseases or landscape plantings.

PUMILAS OR DWARF BEARDED IRIS

These beautiful little harbingers of spring are particularly pleasing in rock gardens or edgings, being only 6" to 12" in height.

PEONIES

Peony Culture.—Since the Peony is to grow undisturbed for years in the same place, it is economy to prepare the soil in advance. Any good garden soil with deep cultivation will grow Peonies. They are gross feeders and require plant food. Well rotted manure and ground bone well worked into the soil at planting time or worked in the surface, furnish an abundance of food. An application of wood ashes in early spring is beneficial. When using artificial fertilizer such as potassium, phosphoric acid or nitrates, care should be taken not to overdo it. Keep all fertilizers away from the central parts of plant or stems. In applying manure use only well rotted manure either when planting or as a top dressing. Plant so that the eyes are covered with soil 2 inches deep. If desirable mound up a little more. Plant in full sunlight, away from trees and do not plant too close to shrubbery. Plant Peonies in the fall. September is the ideal time for this section. This gives the roots a chance to send out rootlets and feeders. If the weather is dry a weekly watering helps to start the roots. When watering, water thoroughly. A slight mulch for the first wintering is beneficial, as it prevents the heaving of the roots by alternate freezing and thawing.

Classification—Types:

Single—single row of guard petals with center pollen-bearing stamens.

Japanese—wide guard petals with stamens enlarged into narrow petaloids.

Anemone—stamens transformed into narrow petals.

Semi-double—several rows of wide petals with center partially transformed petals and stamens intermixed.

Crown—wide center petals forming high crown, around which narrow petals form a collar.

Bomb—center petals uniform in width distinct from guard petals and forming globe center without collar or crown.

Semi-rose—all petals uniform interspersed with stamens.

Rose—complete double of full rose shape without stamens.

Explanation.—Following price list gives a most complete assortment of the best peonies in cultivation giving rating, name, color, originator, date of bloom and classification, as: 88 Alsace-Lorraine—creamy white (Des-L.M.—S.R.) would mean Alsace-Lorraine—creamy white—88% perfect, by Dessert, blooms late midseason, and is of the semi-rose type.
